The copyright law protects intellectual property and governs the use of copyrighted materials. Copyright owners control the reproduction, preparation of derivative works, and public performances and displays. A work is automatically copyrighted if it is original and fixed in some medium. Before making multiple copies or placing copyrighted materials on reserve, please consider the following:

What is Fair Use?
Section 107 of the Copyright Act expressly permits the making of multiple copies for classroom use. In determining whether the use of a work constitutes “Fair Use,” however, the factors to be considered include:

1. the purpose and character of the use, including whether such use is of a commercial nature or is for non-profit, educational purposes
2. the nature of the copyrighted work
3. the amount and substantiality of the portion used in relation to the copyrighted work as a whole
4. the effect of the use upon the potential market for or value of the copyrighted work.

In situations in which copyright permission is needed in order to place materials on reserve, University Libraries will seek permission through the Copyright Clearance Center (CCC). If the CCC cannot provide permission, instructors will need to seek it from the copyright holder before an item can be placed on reserve.
Copyright permission is NOT needed for:

1. Exams and homework solutions
2. Lecture notes
3. Student papers (with permission from student)
4. Government publications
5. One article from a journal issue (spontaneous use and NOT core material)
6. One chapter from a book (spontaneous use and NOT core material)
7. Material available online through a Web link

Copyright permission IS needed for:

1. An article from a journal needed for more than one quarter
2. Multiple articles from one journal issue
3. One chapter of a book needed for more than one quarter
4. Multiple chapters of a book
5. A copyrighted, out-of-print book
